BrixIQ takes the paperwork off your shop. Drop in a customer's print and it reads the part number, material, and surface area, prices it against your rates, and has a quote ready to send in minutes instead of hours. It checks every PO against what you quoted so expedite fees and price changes don't get missed. Certs and quality records stay in one place you can search before an audit. Invoices build themselves from what actually shipped, so you get paid without chasing. Works with the system you already run. Your people approve every number that goes out.
